

The International Landscape Study Days, which the Foundation has promoted and organized every year since 2004, set out to provide people working in different ways and with varying degrees of responsibility in the field of landscape with a critical up-date of the latest developments and an opportunity for the exchange of ideas. Each year the event explores a theme, defined as clearly as possible within the vast field of ideas, sciences, actions, norms, arts and practical skills concerned with the life and the form of places. From 2004 to 2014 they have been ideally dedicated to a personality who has made a lasting contribution to this field, someone who has become one of its universally acknowledged points of reference.

The Landscape Study Days are devised by the Scientific Committee of the Fondazione Benetton Studi Ricerche, they have been coordinated by Domenico Luciano from 2004 to 2013 and since 2014 they are coordinated by Luigi Latini and Simonetta Zanon.

The members of the Scientific Committee are Teresa Andresen, Giuseppe Barbera, Hervé Brunon, Anna Lambertini, Luigi Latini (president), Monique Mosser, Joan Nogué, Lionello Puppi, José Tito Rojo, Massimo Venturi Ferriolo and the internal members Marco Tamaro (director), Patrizia Boschiero, Francesca Ghersetti, Massimo Rossi, Simonetta Zanon. Honorary members are Carmen Añón and Domenico Luciani.
